PAMELA K. CHEN, United States District Judge:

On June 16, 2020, Defendants J.B. Hunt Transport, Inc. and Nichoy M. Tracey filed a Notice of Removal (the “Notice”) removing this action from the Supreme Court of the State of New York, Queens County to this Court. (Dkt. 1.) For the reasons set forth below, this case is sua sponte remanded to the state court.

BACKGROUND

Plaintiff Lauren Vasquez alleges that on March 15, 2018, she was injured when the motor vehicle she was driving was struck by a motor vehicle owned by Defendant J.B. Hunt Transport, Inc. and operated by Defendant Tracey in the course of his employment by Defendant J.B. Hunt Transport, Inc. (See generally Complaint, Dkt. 1-1.) Plaintiff’s Complaint demands “judgment against the Defendants in the amount that exceeds the jurisdictional limits of all Courts that would otherwise have jurisdiction” (id. at ECF¹ 10), but does not specify any specific damages amount.

In removing this matter, Defendants invoke diversity jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1332 as the basis for federal subject matter jurisdiction. (Notice, Dkt. 1, ¶ 5.) The Notice alleges that Plaintiff is a citizen of New York, Defendant J.B. Hunt Transport, Inc. is a citizen of Georgia and Arkansas, and Defendant Tracey is a citizen of New Jersey. (Id. ¶¶ 2–3.) With respect to the amount in controversy, the Notice only states that “the matter in controversy exceeds the sum or value of $75,000, exclusive of interest and costs.” (Id. ¶ 5.) Thus far, Plaintiff has not filed a motion for remand.

DISCUSSION

As a threshold matter, the Court first must address whether it may remand this case to the state court sua sponte, absent a motion from Plaintiff. The relevant statute, 28 U.S.C. § 1447(c), states in pertinent part:

A motion to remand the case on the basis of any defect other than lack of subject matter jurisdiction must be made within 30 days after the filing of the notice of removal under [S]ection 1446(a). If at any time before final judgment it appears that the district court lacks subject matter jurisdiction, the case shall be remanded.

Id. The Second Circuit has construed this statute as authorizing a district court, at any time, to remand a case sua sponte upon a finding that it lacks subject matter jurisdiction. See Mitskovski v. Buffalo & Fort Erie Pub. Bridge Auth., 435 F.3d 127, 131, 133–34 (2d Cir. 2006) (citing Bender v. Williamsport Area Sch. Dist., 475 U.S. 534, 541 (1986)).

Here, as in all cases removed to the federal courts, the removing party has the burden of establishing that the amount in controversy exceeds the $75,000 jurisdictional threshold mandated by 28 U.S.C. § 1332(a). See Lupo v. Human Affairs Int’l, Inc., 28 F.3d 269, 273–74 (2d Cir. 1994). “[I]f the jurisdictional amount is not clearly alleged in the plaintiff’s complaint, and the defendant’s notice of removal fails to allege facts adequate to establish that the amount in controversy exceeds the jurisdictional amount, federal courts lack diversity jurisdiction as a basis for removing the plaintiff’s action from state court.” Id. The Second Circuit has cautioned district courts to “construe the removal statute narrowly, resolving any doubts against removability.” In re

Fosamax Prods. Liab. Litig., No. 06-MD-1789 (JFK), 2013 WL 603187, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Feb. 14, 2013) (citing Somlyo v. J. Lu-Rob Enters., Inc., 932 F.2d 1043, 1045–46 (2d Cir. 1991)).

In this case, Defendants fail to meet their burden to show that the $75,000 jurisdictional amount required for diversity jurisdiction has been satisfied, as they assert only that “the matter in controversy exceeds the sum or value of $75,000” (Notice, Dkt. 1, ¶ 5), without providing any factual allegations to support this conclusion. Furthermore, here, “Defendant[s] cannot meet [their] burden by relying on inferences drawn from [Plaintiff’s complaint], because the [c]omplaint does not allege a damages amount.” Herrera v. Turner, No. 16-CV-4610 (DLI) (JO), 2016 WL 4536871, at *2 (E.D.N.Y. Aug. 30, 2016). Plaintiff only alleges that she was damaged “in the amount that exceeds the jurisdictional limits of all Courts that would otherwise have jurisdiction.” (Complaint, Dkt. 1-1, at ECF 10.) Such language is insufficient to meet the requirement that “a document explicitly stat[e] the amount in controversy to trigger the removal period.” Daversa v. Cowan Equip. Leasing, LLC, No. 20-CV-163 (WFK) (RLM), 2020 WL 967436, at *2 (E.D.N.Y. Feb. 28, 2020) (internal quotation marks omitted) (quoting Cutrone v. Mortg. Elec. Registration Sys., Inc., 749 F.3d 137, 143 (2d Cir. 2014)); see id. (finding complaint inadequate, where plaintiff sought damages in an amount “which exceeds the jurisdictional limits of all Courts lower than the Supreme Court”).

Finally, neither the Complaint nor the Notice contains any further information specifying the nature and extent of Plaintiff’s injuries that would permit this Court to draw a reasonable inference that the amount-in-controversy requirement has been satisfied. Plaintiff’s general allegations that she “was injured and sustained severe and permanent injuries”; that she “was compelled to and did necessarily require medical aid and attention, and did necessarily pay and become liable therefore for medicines”; and that she “sustained serious injuries as defined in § 5102(d) of the Insurance Law of the State of New York,” and “sustained serious injuries and economic loss greater than basic economic loss as defined by § 5104 of the Insurance Law of the State of New York ²” (Complaint, Dkt. 1-1, at ECF 9) are not enough. See Valente v. Garrison From Harrison LLC, No. 15-CV-6522 (DLI) (MDG), 2016 WL 126375, at *2 (E.D.N.Y. Jan. 11, 2016) (remanding case because “the [c]omplaint’s boilerplate allegations that [the p]laintiff ‘sustained severe personal injuries, was rendered sick, sore, lame and disabled, required medical attention, suffered pain, will continue to suffer and will require medical attention in the future’” “do not suffice to establish that this action involves an amount in controversy adequate to support federal diversity jurisdiction”); Herrera, 2016 WL 4536871, at *2 (remanding case because “boilerplate” allegations based on Article 51 of New York Insurance Law “do not suffice to establish that this action involves an amount in controversy adequate to support federal diversity jurisdiction”).

Accordingly, the Court finds that Defendants’ allegations in their Notice are insufficient to support the exercise of federal subject matter jurisdiction.³ Remand to the state court is therefore proper. See, e.g., Woodley, 2008 WL 2191767, at *2.

² Under Section 5102 of the New York Insurance Law, basic economic loss is defined as “up to fifty thousand dollars per person.” N.Y. Ins. Law § 5102. Section 5104 provides that “[n]o such action may be compromised by the covered person except . . . where the amount of such settlement exceeds fifty thousand dollars.” Id. § 5104. Therefore, Plaintiff’s allegation of “economic loss greater than basic economic loss” (Complaint, Dkt. 1-1, at ECF 9) does not, on its own, satisfy the required jurisdictional amount. See Herrera, 2016 WL 4536871, at *2.

³ The Court notes that Defendants are “not without recourse to determine the amount of damages Plaintiff seeks.” Herrera, 2016 WL 4536871, at *2. “[T]he removal clock does not start to run until the plaintiff serves the defendant with a paper that explicitly specifies the amount of monetary damages sought.” Moltner v. Starbucks Coffee Co., 624 F.3d 34, 38 (2d Cir. 2010). “Rather than prematurely removing the action to this Court, Defendant[s] should have availed [themselves] of [N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 3017(c)], pursuant to which the state court, on motion, is to order Plaintiff to respond to a demand for total damages.” Herrera, 2016 WL 4536871, at *2.; cf. Noguera v. Bedard, No. 11-CV-4893 (RRM) (ALC), 2011 WL 5117598, at *2 (E.D.N.Y. Oct. 26, 2011) (“Defendants’ remedy is not to presume, by plaintiff’s silence, that the amount in
